Respondent.)

This matter is before the court with the Report and Recommendation of United States Magistrate Judge Joseph R. McCrorey, made in accordance with 28 U.S.C. § 636(b) and Local Civil Rule 73.02 of the District of South Carolina.¹ Clarence Ocesil Rice (“Rice”) is a pro se state prisoner seeking habeas corpus relief pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254. In his Report and Recommendation, Magistrate Judge McCrorey recommends granting the Respondent’s motion for summary judgment.

Rice filed objections to the Report and Recommendation. Objections to the Report and Recommendation must be specific. Failure to file specific objections constitutes a waiver of a party’s right to further judicial review, including appellate review, if the recommendation is accepted by the district judge. See United States v. Schronce, 727 F.2d 91, 94 & n.4 (4th Cir. 1984). In the absence of specific objections to the Report and Recommendation of the magistrate judge, this court is not required to give any explanation for adopting the recommendation. See Camby v. Davis, 718 F.2d 198, 199 (4th Cir. 1983).

Upon review, the court finds that Rice's objections are non-specific, unrelated to the dispositive portions of the magistrate judge's Report and Recommendation, or merely restate his claims. Further, the court has conducted a de novo review and concludes that the magistrate judge has properly recited the facts and applied the law. Therefore, after a thorough review of the magistrate judge's Report and the record in this case, the court adopts Magistrate Judge McCrorey's Report and Recommendation.

It is therefore

ORDERED that the Respondent's motion for summary judgment, docket number 18, is granted, and Rice's petition, docket number 1, is dismissed without an evidentiary hearing. It is further ORDERED that a certificate of appealability is denied because Rice has failed to make "a substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right." 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2).

IT IS SO ORDERED.
